The Exagerated GAS prices in Portugal

This is still a real problem, and the portuguese population across the border decided to fuel the car in Spain gas stations

Due to the Middle East conflict the prices of gas have been rising nonstop , all over the world. Confronted with this kind of economic crisis, the population across the border decided to fuel its vehicles in Spain, because the price is lower.

The hell over Portugal: Protests

There are occuring several protests against the taxes on gas, and there were even hundreds of truck driver´s that organized a slow march on the autoway this weekend, which caused trafic troubles.

> Honestly I don´t understand what is the government´s problem on lowering the taxes over fuel. I know that they won´t be able to rob more money if they do that, but they should, finally, do something for the people that work so hard to fill their pockets...
> - Arlindo Maia, one of the truck drivers that are participating on the protest.

> Portuguese population is feeling the impact of the crisis over fuel, and is fighting for a relief. Some argue that the profit margins of fuel companies should be lowered, others agree that the government should leave the charge, but all of them want the same thing. That the government think about themselves, at least once on their duty.
